

FILM

Onondaga Lake doc airs again

Glenn Coin gcoin@syracuse.com

After a sellout premiere, a film about Onondaga Lake will get a second public showing. "Beneath the Surface: The Storied History of Onondaga Lake" will be screened at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Palace Theatre in Syracuse.

The film was produced by the Onondaga Historical Association and Otto Media.

It "covers the amazing history of the lake and the remarkable impact it has had on our American way of life over the past six centuries," according to a news release. "From the birthplace of Western democracy with the great Haudenosaunee (Iroquois) Confederacy, to a tourist attraction and the center of economic, cultural, and recreational development, Onondaga Lake continues to play a vital role in our community."

The film was first shown in January to a sell-out crowd at the Palace.

Tickets for the screening are $20, available at the OHA website. Tickets for a 5 p.m. VIP reception, which includes open-bar cocktail hour, dinner and VIP seats, are $100.