

'Update' to popular exhibit

By Laura Hand

Saturday, November 28, 2009 at 11:40 a.m.

Read more: Community, Entertainment, Nostalgia, Onondaga Historical Association, Sixties

Talk about a nostalgia trip! Onondaga Historical Association's 'Toys of the 50s' exhibit was so popular last year, that it's back, but updated to 'Toys of the 60s'. OHA Collections Curator Tom Hunter tells Action News he appealed to the public for submissions, and has lots of the results on display: original Barbies, GI Joe, a Flying Nun Doll, and un-wired games like Twister--over 100 toys and games in all. The exhibit is at the OHA Museum, 321 Montgomery Street, and it's open to the public Saturday & Sunday 11 - 4, Wednesday - Friday 10 - 4. For more information, www.cnyhistory.org

<http://www.cnycentral.com/news/story.aspx?id=383141>