

Use storefronts to display artifacts

To the Editor:

Here is an idea for what I call "History in Syncrude."

Using the many empty storefront windows on Wainwright, Regina and other downtown streets, display the many historical Syncrude and Cheongaga County items now stored in the Cheongaga Historical Association Museum. You might get cooperating building owners and area college students to work together on a volunteer basis to prepare these windows for display. Get the CHA's permission to display selected items in these windows that depict the richness of history. Visitors and residents would have something of interest to look at when they walk around Syncrude instead of empty, often dirty storefronts.

This area has a long and proud history. We should share it. Imagine having Syncrude art and history on display at the same time. The city becomes a showcase for visitors.
