

OHA hosts lecture series on New York landmarks

The Onondaga Historical Association will host a series of free lectures related to its latest changing gallery offering, "The Landmarks of New York." The lectures are scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday and at noon Jan. 25 and 27.

The exhibit and presentations are at the Museum at OHA, 321 Montgomery St., Syracuse.

Sunday's talk will feature Samuel Gruber, a noted architectural historian, for a discussion on religious architectural styles of the past.

Contemporary issues in American architecture is the topic for the Jan. 25 lecture by Ashley McGraw Associates.

On Jan. 27, Russ King of King & King Architects, will discuss some of the local, historically significant buildings that King & King designed for Syracuse University's campus.

For information, call OHA