In conjunction with Carl Lee's installation of his 3-channel video, Last House and Amy Green's paintings of vacant houses in Buffalo and Syracuse, the Onondaga Historical Association will present an illustrated talk about the Greater Syracuse Property Development Corporation, the community's new land bank organization. Andrew Maxwell, the City of Syracuse's Director of Planning & Sustainability will discuss the city's latest initiative to deal with tax delinquent properties and Vito Sciscioli, chair of the land bank's Board of Directors, will discuss how this new agency's activities and initiatives will bring visionary new approaches to the issue of abandoned properties.
