

Bits of History. Dan Cochrane, an independent paper conservator, reaches into a time capsule opened last week at the Onondaga Historical Association. The capsule was sealed in 1950 at the Industrial Bank of Central New York, on South Warren Street. It included periodicals, like the one held by Cochrane at right; Polarioid photos; a marching band baton; and a woman's hat made for the occasion.

MICHAEL DAVIS PHOTOS